A Four-Story Building at Louisville

Gives Way, Killing Two Men—The Structure Afterward Destroyed by Fire.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., January 8.—The fire bells sounded an alarm at five o'clock this afternoon in a furious snow storm of wind and blinding snow, calling the department to a large double building at nos and 255 West Main street, occupied by Tribune & Co., Balmforth and H. P. Forwood & Co., all cotton factors and commission merchants. The building, which was four stories high, was used jointly by these firms as a store-house for consignments of all sorts, but principally for cotton, of which there was about 700 bales packed away on the first, second and third floors. On the fourth floor there were 300 sacks of peanuts. On Tuesday Balmberger, Bloom & Co. packed 50 cases of heavy prints on the second floor and the presumption is that this heavy consignment caused the floor, which was already overweighed, to give way, forcing out the front walls and causing the entire building to fall in. The stove in the front part of the house set fire to the cotton, and in twenty minutes after the first alarm the place was in a mass of raging flames. The firemen were at great disadvantages from the blinding storm, but by gallant work kept the fire from communicating to the adjacent buildings. The report rapidly spread that Messrs. J. M. Balmforth and H. M. Wright, who were in the front office had been buried beneath the ruins, and were lost. Peter Perkins, colored porter, who had just come in from the cellar, heard the floor cracking above and sprang toward the street door, at the same time crying loudly to Mr. Balmforth to run. He was too late, however, for just as he sprang through the window and escaped into the street, with the debris falling all around him, that part of the building over the front office fell with a crash, burying both Mr. Balmforth and Colonel Wright under twenty bales of cotton that came down from above. The firemen have been unable to work in the ruins yet, and whether the bodies have been discovered. Colonel Wright, who was a graduate of West Point and a brave Confederate soldier, leaves a large family in limited circumstances. He was employed as Superintendent of the concern, and was an expert on cotton. Mr. Balmforth was a well-known cotton factor and a man of wealth and prominence. He leaves an interesting family. Messrs. Richard Treble and Traine Barmkale, together with Mr. H. P. Forwood and a boot-black, were in Tribune's office, in the rear end of the building, when the disaster fell. They escaped by crawling their way out through the iron grating of a back window. It is thought that a negro truckman was buried in the ruins, but this report can not be verified. The building belongs to the estate of the late Charles Ruter, was valued at $20,000, and was fully insured. Nearly all of the supplies stored in the warehouse were insured, but in what companies can not be learned to-night. The total loss is about $150,000. Balmberger, Bloom & Co., as it happened, took out a policy on their consignment of prints at two o'clock this afternoon. The work of excavating the bodies of Messrs. Wright and Balmforth can not be begun until in the morning.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., January 8.—Neighbors noticing the absence of persons around Dr. Martin White's residence, in this city, broke into the house this afternoon and found the entire family with their throats cut from ear to ear. Dr. White and wife were lying upon the floor and the two children in bed. It is thought they have been dead since Sunday afternoon. The work of excavating the bodies of Messrs. Wright and Balmforth can not be begun until in the morning.

A Good Decision for Mexican Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, January 8.—The Second Comptroller of the Treasury has decided that Oliver Hayward, late Sergeant Second United States Artillery, is entitled to the three months' extra pay allowed the soldiers who served in the Mexican war. The Comptroller holds that the war with Mexico began on July 25, 1848, when ratification of the treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo was exchanged, and not, as heretofore held, on July 6, 1848, the date on which the War Department made official announcement of the same. Under this ruling all soldiers who served in that war and were not discharged until after May 30 are entitled to the benefits of the act of July 19, 1848, and February 19, 1878.
